Course Organization

This course is part of the Upper-Secondary English Teacher Education Program at the University of Gävle.

The first ten weeks of the semester you will study two modules: "Sociolinguistics and Second Language Acquisition" and "Literature and Literary Theory". You will be writing your C-essay for the remainder of the semester.

The first module, Sociolinguistics and Second Language Acquisition, presents central concepts in two central areas of applied linguistics: second language acquisition and sociolinguistics. You will learn about and discuss the implications of the central concepts in these fields, exploring research involving these concepts and seeing how linguists study language phenomena in these two fields. In the second language acquisition half of the module, you will learn about different theories of second language acquisition and about factors which can affect learning a foreign language. In the sociolinguistics half of the module you will learn about how social factors like gender and class can affect language and about how language can be used to define and express identity. The required textbooks are as follows (Please note, older editions will NOT work as the chapters are radically revised and renumbered):

Wardhaugh, Ronald, An Introduction to Sociolinguistics, 7th edition, Blackwell, 2014.
<http://www.bokus.com/bok/9781118732298/an-introduction-to-sociolinguistics/>

Coates, Jennifer, Women, Men and Language, 3rd revised ed, Pearson Longman, 2015.
<http://www.bokus.com/bok/9781138948785/women-men-and-language/>

Lightbrown, Patsy & Spada, Nina How Languages are Learned, 4th edition Oxford Uni Press, 2013
<http://www.bokus.com/bok/9780194541268/how-languages-are-learned/>

You should expect ordered books to take around 2-3 weeks to arrive, so order your textbooks in good time!

We strongly recommend active participation in the course, which involves attending seminars if possible and participating in discussion response forums as well as reading the literature before seminars so you are well prepared to discuss what you read at seminars. You should expect to spend about 20 hours a week on this module, which is examined through written tasks, video lectures and study questions as well as online discussions.

The Literature module serves as an introduction to some of the most influential developments in critical thinking. Peter Barry's Beginning Theory: An Introduction to Literary and Cultural Theory, Third Edition (2009) (older editions are also fine) provides helpful starting points regarding the current breadth and complexity of literary and cultural studies. We will read five canonized texts from an historical and theoretical perspective. These texts are:

Crome Yellow by Aldous Huxley
Crossing the River by Caryl Phillips
Death of a Salesman by Arthur Miller
Love Medicine by Louise Erdrich
Beloved by Toni Morrison

These works differ in narrative strategies, thematic emphases, and political orientation. Different critical "schools" will be presented and discussed in the seminars and, as a means of illustration, particular interpretive perspectives will be employed when examining fictional texts during the seminars. There will be five written assignments for the Literature course, one for each book we discuss in class. The schedule will follow the following pattern: first, there will be an introduction lecture on the literary work as well as on theory. At the following meeting, students will have their written assignment with them in class. These papers will be discussed and turned in at that meeting. The essays should be between 1000 and 1200 words, and deal directly with some aspect of the assignment topic posted by the instructors. The purpose of these written tasks is to cultivate skills in critical reflection and academic writing, and to allow instructors to offer feedback on your writing, in order for you to prepare in the best possible way for writing your C-essay.

In order to reduce your workload during this term, we strongly recommend that you start reading the literary texts before the beginning of the course. It is also a good idea to order the reference book (Barry) and all your other course books in good time.

Communication

On Blackboard, you will find specific information, such as detailed course descriptions, class schedule, teaching materials, course requirements, discussion forum, and assignments. A great part of your work will be carried out via Blackboard, too. It is therefore essential that you enroll in the course on Blackboard the week before the semester starts (keep in mind that course registration and enrollment in the course on Blackboard are separate things). Follow the steps under the heading "Get started with your studies". Once the module has started, you should check the course site on Blackboard on a daily basis. Important information will be posted by your instructors on the first page of the course site (as "Announcements"). I also strongly recommend that you use your HiG student e-mail account rather than your private e-mail account when communicating with your teachers.

Registration for Written Exams

Registration for exams, including retakes, via KronoX is mandatory. You can register no earlier than five weeks and no later than ten days before the exam. Please note that registrations will not be accepted beyond this time frame. If you are a distance study student and are unable to sit the exam on campus you can apply to sit the exam at another location. Applications must be submitted no later than three weeks prior to the exam. Contact your faculty for more information.

Course Evaluation

After completion of your course a web-based course evaluation questionnaire will be sent to your e-mail address. Your answers in the course evaluation are very valuable and your comments will help us improve and develop the course for the future. All students registered on the course will receive a course evaluation report with all answers compiled. Individual modules may also include separate evaluation surveys.

General Information

Library

The library is located in the middle of the campus and is open to everybody. Welcome to the library to activate your entrance card as a library card. You can reach all digital resources such as e-books and e-journals after logging in with your computer account.
